FOR SALE—A small, gentle Texas Pony. Apply to P. GARNIER, Ironton, Mo.

On Jan. 1st, 1890: State vs. Blackburn—Disturbance of the peace. Fine and costs, $33.

Rev. Mr. McDougal preached at the Presbyterian church last Sunday, "as per announcement."

Thos. Moore, Esq., of Poplar Bluff, came to Ironton last Sunday on a visit to friends and acquaintances, etc.

An adjourned term of the county court is being held this week—Judges Dinger, Stephens and Kemper all being in attendance.

We commence the new year with a bigger subscription list than we have had since 1878; and with a better paid-up list than we ever had.

Rev. T. D. Lewis will preach at the M. E. Church, Ironton, on next Sunday evening, January 11th, 1890. Services to commence at 7:30 o'clock.

Cul. J. P. Dillingham, who was under the weather for a couple of days last week, is again, we are glad to note, able to be out and is attending to business, as usual.

This is bad weather for killing hogs and curing pork, and we notice that some of our merchants have been bothered exceedingly trying to save shoulders and hams bought just as the warm spell set in.

Our young friends, Thos. Edwards and Bernard Zwart, Esqs., came home from St. Louis, and spent the holidays with their friends. Last Thursday they both returned to school, and we trust they may resume their studies refreshed by their short vacation and encouraged by the good-will of their friends.

We learn that it is the intention of the Pilot Knob Iron Company to put up a large number of additional houses for the use of their employees. All the houses now standing have been put in repair and not a single one of them is untenanted. The boom in Iron is a big thing for this section, and the indications now are that it will endure for years to come.

John Robideaux "raised Cain" at August Riecke's saloon last Saturday to such an extent that August for the Marshal. That saloon arrived on the scene in due time and arrested Mr. Robideaux for disturbing the peace and took him before Mayor Dinger, who fined him $1 and costs—$6.10 in all. Mr. Robideaux paid his fine and went on his way—we trust a happier as well as a wiser man.

We were favored by a call from Jno. M. Glover, Esq., of St. Louis, last Monday. Mr. Glover had come thus far on his way to Reedsburg and other country, but was stopped from further proceeding by the high waters. He is as pleasant a young man as we have seen for many a day, and will we doubt at some day out a figure in public matters. We wish him Godspeed in all the affairs of life.

On last Saturday night, about eight o'clock, a north-bound freight train was wrecked in the east end of town, ditching one car loaded with compressed cotton. This threw two other cars off the rails, turning up the truck so that it took off five o'clock next morning to get the road cleared and replaced.

The wreck was caused by the breaking of the spring beam of one of the trucks. On account of this accident the mail train went around the C. & A. T. road and Belmont Branch.

This is the way the Cape Girardeau Democrat calls attention to some girls who don't behave themselves at a recent public entertainment in that city: "The two young ladies who attended the Pinafore on Tuesday night last and made themselves ridiculous by their rude conduct, ought to be kept home hereafter until they learn how to conduct themselves as ladies should on such occasions. It would be well for their father to give them a lecture in his official way of lecturing other people, regardless of law or decency."

The approach to the side-track at this station is exceedingly bad, and we hear frequent complaints about it from those who have goods to load upon and unload from the cars. A little expense would do away with this trouble, and we think it the duty of the management to have the matter attended to at once. A great deal of shipping is done at this station, and it is certainly to the interest of the road to afford every facility to their customers. Will not the proper person see to it that the nuisance—for it is an undeniable nuisance—herein mentioned is abated at an early day?

We trust the city council at its approaching session may take steps toward the improvement of our streets and sidewalks. The money in the treasury cannot be put to a better use than this, and it ought to be employed with no niggard hand—always considering, of course, that it be judiciously applied. We have lived here ever since the town was incorporated, and we do not remember to have ever seen the streets and sidewalks in such deplorable condition. It will not take a great deal to put them in proper repair, and it ought to be attended to at once. Will the council heed the voice of the citizens and make our thoroughfares what they should be?

For downright mean, miserable, mud-making pervasiveness, the weather of the two weeks just past, will ever remain celebrated in the annals of the Arcadia Valley. Our streets and sidewalks are in worse condition than we ever knew them before, while the roads leading into town are, in many instances, impassable for loaded wagons. The incessant rains have filled the streams to overflowing, and communication with Arcadia would be cut off if it were not for the railroad bridge across Stout's creek. The sun refuses to shine, and fogs and mists prevail to an extent that renders every inhabitant of our usually bright and sunny climate exceedingly miserable. And there is no sign of a let-up.

We give the following condensed weather report for 1879, made up from the weekly bulletins:

"What did the officer do with you?"
"He caught me der way to the shall in the west, until my sheps was more upright and regular as before."
"Will you be off or from?"
"Well, offer you please, Esquire, I'll be off right away, quick."
"Why did you leave the East and come West?"
"In search of work."
"Work being an object of your search, you will find it the duty of a citizen, consisting of some five or seven steps, turn square about, get on the level road, put out of the city, and make a plumb line for Chicago, where the wicked are always troublesome, and where the weary are as bad as the rest."
